Rehema's elder sister, Faridah sat PLE last year. She didn't get good results and this was attributed to her inappropriate preparations. She didn't manage her time well. She would spend most of her time partying, watching TV and visiting friends instead of revising. So she had to repeat P.7 this year and to her dismay, she is in the same class with her sister Rehemah!

This was an eye opener to Rehemah. She didn't wait to fail the exams to repeat the class. So she decided to start her preparations early. She spent her first term holidays with her cousin revising lower class work and writing summaries. Then when the second term began, she drew's herself a time table. This included house chores and revision time.

At school, she completes all her exercises in time and does all her corrections. When she goes back home in the evening, she does all the chores quickly and then goes to her bedroom to revise. Her parents and siblings are supportive. They don't disturb her as she revises and sometimes take her a cup of tea, juice or supper.
